Call for Clinician-Educator to Join MPO Program Faculty

Northwestern University Prosthetics-Orthotics Center (NUPOC) invites individuals with a passion for clinical teaching to consider joining our faculty as a permanent, full-time Instructor or Assistant Professor in the Feinberg School of Medicine. Ideal candidates will be ABC Certified Prosthetist-Orthotists (or have an equivalent ISPO-recognized Category I credential) who have earned an advanced degree at the master’s degree level or higher with 5 years of clinical, teaching and/or research experience in the field. Primary responsibilities will include: lecturing; demonstrating clinical techniques; supervising student management and fitting of patient models; and creating selected presentations for our Masters in Prosthetics-Orthotics (MPO) program.

Prior teaching or lecturing experience would be a plus, as would a proven record of excellence within a similar academic institution. Qualified candidates with additional clinical credentials in a closely related field, such as physical or occupational therapy, are invited to apply.

NUPOC teaching faculty are encouraged to remain actively involved in scientific research and clinical care. Up to 20% release time from teaching responsibilities can be arranged to enable well-qualified individuals to pursue these goals.

Strong candidates who do not currently possess all desired qualifications will be considered and, if selected, required to earn the appropriate credential within a reasonable period of time, consistent with their teaching duties. Northwestern University offers a tuition grant to faculty who are advancing their academic education.

Northwestern University provides a generous benefits package including life, health & dental insurance; multiple tax-deferred retirement programs with a University contribution; and paid holiday, personal & vacation days. Initial salary will be commensurate with the ability and qualifications of the selected candidate.

If you would like to live and work in one of America’s most vibrant, lakefront urban regions, joining a solid team of experienced teachers and researchers in our award-winning facilities, please forward a Curriculum Vitae and cover letter explaining your strengths and interests to:
